The aim of the conference

The 23th International Conference "Corporate Governance – Theory and Practice" is aimed at the exchange of knowledge and experience between science and enterprises. The improvement in technological, economical, organizational and environmental solutions in corporate government is especially dealt with in this regard. Dynamic changes in surrounding environment result in a need for searching for innovations in a whole value chain – from raw material sourcing to waste utilization and management. Application of interdisciplinary teams and a comprehensive collaboration between different parties is required, therefore, for obtaining satisfactory outcomes of such efforts. The Conference is not only hoped to provide necessary means for tightening the collaboration between science and business but also to develop common projects and to provide opportunities for establishing contacts aimed at the stimulation of innovation and enterprise. This is why the proposed thematical panels are organized together by both researchers and practitioners.
